START TIME: 09:00

RUNNER TRACKING

Your friends and family can track you via the 'results' page on our website. They can search for you by your name or bib number. Your progress will be shown on the route map.

mkmarathon.com/results

Tracking will start when your runner crosses the first tracking mat at mile 1. Their actual location will be updated each time they cross a timing mat, and then an average used to plot their progress until the next timing mat. Their real-time location might not be accurate if they speed up or slow down between mats.

TOP TIPS:

It's a good idea to agree on a location beforehand. This not only saves you running around the city trying to find a clear spot but also means your runner has something to aim for, knowing they will see you in a specific location.

Make sure you know your runners predicted finish time.
